They say they play RAW POP which is just another name for simple rock'n'roll songs - too alternative for the pop market and too easy for the underground. Their sound is imperfect, dusty and analog.

They mix - in perfect ratio - 70's (Cream, Hendrix, Zeppelin), 90's (Neil Young and his younger incarnations such as Pearl Jam or other, noisier Seattle's representatives) and the current times (they do sound a bit like themselves, too).

They record albums (Cinemon LP 2008, Three Days EP 2011, Perfect Ocean 2013, Masters of Second-guessing 2016) but mostly, they play live shows: the last three years have seen almost 200 of them. Here and there: in Poland, Hungary, Slovakia, Czech Republic, Norway, Austria, Germany...

Here they are: Cinemon. A modern times vintage rock, grunge, blues, pop. Whatever you like most, it's there.

Live, they present certain worksmanship, feeling and musicality archetypal of the times when rock music was not only entertainment but a real joyful and honest.

Imagine a downhill on a city bike. And flying a paraglider with your eyes blindfolded. Pure insanity and freedom - that's what their music is like
